

Dear Ms.Amineddoleh,

Thank you for your mail of 25th April, 2016, the receipt of which I acknowledge.

I agree to your proposal that in place of my name, the Essay should continue to appear with the preface proposed by you.

I am enclosing a draft letter which I could send to the PR Firm at whose invitation I had written the Essay. You may approve of this or should you wish to write to them directly, you may do that instead or do so in addition to the above. Do let me know your preferred choice.

My father (copied on this mail) is fully briefed of this matter and I am sure a meeting with him, in due course, on one of his visits to the United States could pave the way for joint efforts and contributions on the field of art law.

As regards to the proposed conference on plagiarism, please let me know the dates in the remaining part of the year which work for you and I will work towards organising an excellent conference perhaps, at a location like the National Museum in New Delhi. We can work towards organising high quality press and interviews with you, which will no doubt, create a lot of learning for the Indian Industry. I have full confidence that my Firm will fully back me with their time and expertise and I am sure we can develop a great relationship going forward.

I will work on the draft program and will send it to you in the weeks ahead.

As regards to learning a lesson, I can only acknowledge that this incident has indeed been a learning experience for me and I shall be more diligent in the future.

Thank you and with best regards.

Tejshree Savara